CLASS POEM

Fellow classmates pause a moment
And consider while you may
Our school days here will soon be over
And bigger things before us lay

Through our future years of wandering
Don't forget those hours of gold
But recall with loving memories
All the happiness each hour did hold

Of the many hours of study
Of the craming for Exams
Seeing visions of ourselves now
In our graduating gowns

Listen to the merry laughter
Echoing in the old famaliar hall
Time awaits us in the future
Do not falter, do not fall

We have studied of great country-men
Such as Washington, Lincoln, and Lee
One of you, my dear classmates
May be like one of these

What the future holds for each one
No one will ever know
We are young and know so little
Where's the place for us to go

There are many opportunities
Far beyond the school room door
And may each and every one of us
Find the work he is suited for

Commencement -- the beginning
Not the ending of our strife
But the road that leads us onward
To bigger better life

So long to all the teachers
Who have instructed us so well
And to you my dear classmates
I must now say farewell

CLASS PROPHECY

We, Wanda Witt and Kate Gallimore, toured the United States twenty years after our graduation to see if we could find all of our former classmates. We are very happy to report that we either saw or heard of all those who graduated with us in 1948.

I, Wanda Witt, badly needing a rest after nursing in St. Mary's Hospital for fifteen years without a vacation, and I, Kate Gallimore, also deserving a rest from the daily routine of rearing three children enjoyed the tour.

First we stopped in Charleston, W. Va. to see Mrs. Tommy West, the former Betty Hubbard of Draper. When we arrived she was visiting her husband, who was recovering from a serious injury caused by a "Flying Biscuit".

In our travels we came to a large city which we found to be Draper. Only a few blocks down the street we saw the name of an old acquaintance, Peggy Duncan, flashing across a huge neon sign. She had become the famous singer of Jack Brown's new night club, "The Hot Spot".

Visiting some of our friend in Hollywood we ran into Thelma Stilwell. She had become a famous actress and had just finished her latest picture, "A Night in Sylvatus".

Weary of a long day of travel, we stopped at a hotel, When we entered the lobby, whom should we meet but our old classmate, Ray Covey. Ray looked very handsome in his black and whit checked suit, a purple shirt, and a large gold watch chain dangling from his robust figure. He told us he was now the governor of "The State of Confusion".

Starting on a new day we came to a farm lying between the rolling hills of Shiloh. Here we met our former classmate, Davis Miller, who was successfully running a billy goat farm. We found him pulling his bushy red hair in a fit of rage because one of his goats had eaten a hat he had borrowed from a lady years ago when being initiated into a F. F. A. club.

While traveling through Tennessee we rounded a curve and saw a quaint little cottage by the side of the road. Seeing a middle aged spinster rocking calmly on the front porch, we stopped in hopes of getting some water to fill our thermos bottle. Coming closer, to our surprise, we saw the white haired lady to be Fay Marshall. After talking to Fay awhile we found that her friend Ruby Marshall had been placed in an insane hospital-- suffering from loss of memory caused from blowing bubble gum. We were happy to learn she had not lost her old friend, Margaret Viers, because she had become matron of the same institution.

In search of entertainment, after a long day, we stopped at a carnival in Nashville, Tennessee. The first thing we saw was a clown coming toward us, finding out that it was Hugh Huff we knew that he was up to his old tricks. We learned that Georgia Milton was with the same carnival. She had lost her talent as a boxer and had taken a job as "fat lady".

Driving down a country road in North Carlonia we came to a cute little cottage. Stopping we saw a dozen childrens' head sticking out of the windows and doors. To our surprise Rachel Snavley answered the door. She had married C. A. Vires after we had finished school.

One evening in our hotel we turned on the radio. After a few minutes we heard Jesse Reynolds speaking. He was making speeches for Henry Wallace's third term as president. After Jesse left the air we heard another famaliar voice. It was Mary Long meowing. She had obtained a job advertising "meow meow" cat food.

Many times we saw Mozell Hedge during our travels. She is still searching for Kilroy.

We stopped to look over a newly erected female college. Charles Jackson still loves the girls. He was very happy as president of the institution.

Ray Phillips has become a famous lawyer -- specializing in divorces.

Our last stop was on Fifthe Avenue in Snowville, Virginia. We found that Eugie Tolbert owned the famous "Powder Puff" dress shoppe. Nadine Shelor, who had always been so closely associated with her in high school, was associated with her in business --- she was her model.

CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1944 eighty-one green freshmen entered Draper High School What a time we had trying to get accustomed to the place. Miss Canary Huff was our sponsor. Our class organized with Peggy Duncan, President; Charles Jackson, Vice-President; Rachel Snavley, Secretary; Kate Qusenberry, Treas.; and Ray Phillips, Reporter.

We became Sophomores before we knew it. This year we were under the leadership of Miss Julia Farmer. We had become more accustomed to the place and found that it wasn't a bad place at all. Our officers this year was Davis Miller, President; Kate Qusenberry, Vice-President; Peggy Duncan, Secretary; and Betty Hubbard, Treasurer. This year the girls took Home Economics for the first time.

We felt very important to become Juniors. This year we were guided by Mrs. Elizabeth McGavock. Our class elected the following as class officers: Nadine Shelor, President; Kate Qusenberry, Vice-President; Peggy Duncan, Secretary; and Betty Hubbard, Traes. This year we entertained the seniors with a picnic at Carter Memorial Park. In December we were very happy to get to order our class rings.

Last September we became seniors under the leadership of Mrs. Canary H. Newman. We enrolled a class of twenty-four out of the eighty-one that started as freshmen. We realize that some of them have encountered stumbling stone for which we are very sorry. Some left Draper to enter other high schools and will be finishin them this year. We elected as our class officers the following: Rachel Snavley, President; Kate Gallimore, Vice-President; and Betty Hubbard, Secretary-Treasurer. On Hallow-een we gave a masquerade party. In November our class rings came and everyone was very proud of them. Now we are looking forward to getting our diplomas, but mixed with our deep emotions will be the sadness of saying goodby to our high school days.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the Senior Class of 1948, being of sound mind, body and soul, in accordance with the laws of this state, on this the twelfth day of February, nineteen hundred and forty-eight do hereby will and bequeath the following:

Peggy Duncan: Her invisible brain to anyone who can find it.
Betty Hubbard: The new look to "Chubby" Kirby.
Rachel Snavley: Her red toboggan to Charles Painter.
Georgia Milton: Her Government book to Mrs. Moody.
Mozelle Hedge: Her Chemistry intelligence to the Junior Class.
Faye Marshall: Her ability to get along with other people to the Freshman Class.
Ruby Marshall: Her ability to cook to Mrs. Lalah Newman.
Margaret Viers: Her ability to sew to Mrs. Lalah Newman.
Thelma Stilwell: Her quiet ways to Bonnie Miller.
Kate Gallimore: Her man catching ways to the rest of the Senior Class.
Nadine Shelor: Her place as president of the Home Economics Club to Christalene Dishon.
Eugie Tolbert: Her seat in the Senior Room to her future sister-in-law, Marie Dishon.
Jesse Reynolds: His English book to Miss Lovern.
Hugh Huff: His ability to get along with Mrs. Moody to the Junior Class.
Charles Jackson: A pencil without any lead in it to Miss Lovern so she can't cut English grades.
Davis Miller: His freckles to Howard Eads.
Ray Covey: His place as bench sitter at basketball games to Charles Painter.
Ray Phillips: His lunch ticket to John Wesley Showalter.
Wanda Witt: Her ability to make everyone as cute as they are to Bonnie Miller.
Mary Long: Her ability to sew to Wilma McPeak.
George Taylor: Millard Spence his place as center on the basketball team.
Glenn Taylor: Joe Covey the second base on the baseball team.
Delores McPeak: Her ability to work to Bonnie Miller.
Miss Farmer: A man to go with her diamond ring.
Mrs. Canary H. Newman: A pair of stilts so she can see what her husband looks like.
Miss Lovern: A Senior Class that will not make her lose her temper and break promises.
Mrs. Moody: A successful Government Class.
Mrs. McGavock: As much success being a housewife as being a teacher.
Mr. Newman: A house with doors high enough so he will not be wearing goose eggs all the time.
Mrs. Lalah Newman: A new bedroom in the Home Economics Cottage so the students can use the old one.
Mr. Cassell: An all day cigar.
Mrs. Miller: A Chemistry Class with wings so they can keep up with her.
The Junior Class: All the chewing gum under the desks and in such likely and unlikely places.
The Sophomore Class: A lawyer to keep them out of trouble.
The Freshman Class: Ability to become Seniors in spite of the struggles.
